"Spotlight" on Community Development Services

Mia's philosophy has always been one of inclusion for the young women she supports. On this particular Friday afternoon in November, Mia and her young ladies were attending a movie when another movie patron noticed their independence and self-sufficiency. The woman approached them and asked if there was something she could do for them. The group politely declined but were later approached by her once again. This time she proceeded to hand each person a gift card. She was so pleased by the successes of these young women that she wanted to do something to honor them. Way to go ladies!
